Non-Surgical Orthopaedics, P.C. is one of Atlanta's premier non-surgical orthopaedic practices and an industry leader for the non-invasive treatment of back pain, neck pain and other orthopaedic injuries.

WHAT CAUSES BONE PAIN?

Pain within the bones is relatively uncommon, especially compared to muscle and joint pain. Bone pain can be caused by conditions that can be serious, so it should always be checked out by a medical professional. In some cases, the cause of bone pain may be obvious. Bone fractures caused by traumatic injury are usually painful.

There are several different types of bone fractures, and treatment of fractures depends on the location and severity of the fracture. Osteoporosis, a condition which is characterized by loss of bone strength and mineral density, makes an individual very susceptible to bone fractures.
